DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-2, 5, 25 and 36 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Ozark (US Patent 5,839,738). Ozark discloses a multipurpose cooler for storing and transporting items comprising a cooler body (10) having a lid (64); and a basket (58) connected with said cooler body for sliding between a fully extended position forming, with said cooler body, a basket cavity (60) for storing and transporting items and an fully retracted position against said cooler body (See Figs. 1-2); [claim 2] wherein the fully retracted position includes said basket being substantially entirely collapsed against said cooler body and the basket cavity being substantially entirely nonexistent; and [claim 25] further including standard wheels (26) having a first diameter and being rotatably connected to said cooler body.

Regarding claim 5, Ozark inherently discloses including a track means for guiding said basket between the fully extended and fully retracted positions.

Regarding claim 36, Ozark discloses a cooler body (10) having an insulated interior and an exterior; a lid (64) connected to said cooler body to permit selective access to the interior; and a container body (58) having three walls and a bottom and being slidably connected to said cooler body to slide between a fully extended position defining, with said cooler body, a cavity for storing and transporting items and a fully retracted position where said cavity is substantially nonexistent.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 6-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ozark (US Patent 5,839,738) in view of Examiner's Official Notice. Ozark discloses a multipurpose cooler as set forth above, but does not specifically disclose the specific components of the track means including two slots on opposing sides of the basket and posts extending outwardly from the cooler body. Examiner takes official notice that it is notoriously old and well known that track means includes a track with a slot, wherein a post engages and slides in the slot. Therefore, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in this art to provide a track means having a slot on both sides of the basket that engages a post on both sides of the cooler body in Ozark, so that the basket can easily slide in and out.

5. Claim 13 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ozark (US Patent 5,839,738) in view of Conrado et al. (US Patent 6,315,149 B1). Ozark discloses a multipurpose cooler as set forth above, but does not disclose a cutting board positionable atop said cooler body. Conrado discloses a cutting board (72) positionable atop said cooler body. At the time of the invention, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in this art to provide a cutting board atop the cooler body in Ozark in view of the teaching of Conrado et al. The motivation for doing so would have been to allow a person to cut up food items that were stored in the cooler.

6. Claims 16, 22 and 33-35 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ozark (US Patent 5,839,738) in view of Jackson (US Patent 5,407,218). Ozark discloses a multipurpose cooler as set forth above, but does not disclose at least one accessory holding device attachable to said cooler body and configured for receipt and holding of various items. Jackson discloses an accessory holding device (78) attachable to said cooler body and configured for receipt and holding of various items. At the time of the invention, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in this art to provide an accessory holding device on the cooler body disclosed in Ozark in view of the teaching of Jackson. The motivation for doing so would have been to allow the user to store items such as keys, wallet, etc., without having to put them in the cooler.

Regarding claim 22, Jackson discloses including connection means (80,82) connected with said at least one accessory holding device and with at least one of said cooler body and said basket for removably connecting said at least one accessory holding device alongside of said at least one of said cooler body and said basket.

Regarding claim 35, Ozark discloses a handle (34) connected with said container body to slide between a full-in, storage position and a full-out, transport position.

7. Claim 24 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ozark (US Patent 5,839,738) and Jackson (US Patent 5,407,218) as applied to claim 16 above, and further in view of Treppedi et al. (US Patent 6,474,097 B2). The combination of Ozark and

Jackson disclose the multipurpose cooler as set forth above, but does not disclose including a rod holder including at least one tubular member with a top end, the tubular member being open at its top end. Treppedi et al. discloses a rod holder (32) having an open top end. At the time of the invention, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in this art to provide a tubular rod holder on the cooler disclosed in Ozark in view of the teaching of Treppedi et al. The motivation for doing so would have been to allow an umbrella to be stored in the tubular rod holder.

Allowable Subject Matter

8. Claim 3-4, 9-12, 14-15, 17-21, 23 and 26-32 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
